

Senior citizens center trumps Nada project

By KAYLA MAYS
Times Reporter

The Powell County Fiscal Court held their regular meeting last Tuesday. The newly proposed 2012-2013 budget became the center of attention.

The court was presented with the first reading of the 2012-2013 budget. The court accepted the first reading. When looking over the budget in comparison to the previous year there are several changes apparent. The Times is still going through the budget. The general fund budget rose nearly $3 million in the proposal.

"That's due to the CSEPP money we are receiving for the EOC (Emergency Operations Center)," Powell County Judge Executive James Anderson told the Times on Monday. When asked about apparent raises for some fiscal court office personnel, Anderson stated that it was not raises, but that some personnel held several positions. "To make it easier, the positions were combined to show the salaries as one line item," Anderson stated.

The Times will report more next week about the entire budget and changes that have been found.

Brian Kirby with CEDA presented to the court information pertaining to the Nada Housing Project. Kirby proposed that the county allow him to apply for grant and funding for Phase II which will build more homes and help other families the same as Phase I did.

Anderson advised the court that if they decided to apply for grants to fund Phase II of the Nada Housing project they could not apply for the grants needed for a new senior citizens building. The court discussed the issue. The two projects and a motion was made by Ricky Creed to decline the request for grant approval for the Nada Housing Project. Magistrate Creed, along with Magistrates Donna Gabbard and Anderson all voted to decline the Nada project. Magistrates John Barker, Eck Snowden, and Myers Arnett were opposed to declining the project. With a tied vote the motion did not carry and Powell County Attorney Robert King advised that there was no tie breaker in this situation.

The court also approved the purchase of three tasers for the jail and for Anderson to look into refinancing options for the jail.

Relay for Life fighting for a cure

The Powell County Relay for Life Event was held last Friday evening. The opening ceremonies kicked off the 12 hours of fun, hugs, tears and cheers as the local teams raised money to help with cancer research and to fight the disease. As always the Survivors Walk was a special part of the opening ceremonies. Each year the group of survivors seems to grow and the love poured out through applause and hugs during the walk shows how much the local Relay for Life efforts are appreciated.

Scholarship set up in memory of Flight 5191 victim to help others fly

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

"He loved it and was proud to do it," Wayne Fortney said as he reminisced about his son Clarence Wayne "C.W." Fortney, II. "He just loved it." Now his family wants to help a Powell County resident who has the same interest and passion to get their chance.

The "it" that Fortney speaks about is flying. C.W. Fortney loved to fly aircrafts. When he was a young man, even as a child, he loved to watch planes and had a keen interest in flying. It was that interest that became his passion.

That and his wife, Sarah. Then there was his son, Calvin James Fortney.

Fortney worked hard to fulfill his dream of being a commercial pilot. He worked his way up to being a first-officer for Air Tran Airline. He overcame all the hard work and having to learn about each aircraft he was certified to operate.

He even overcame the loss of his job right after 9/11 when airlines had to cut back. But he regrouped and enjoyed flying.

"He got to do what he liked," Wayne Fortney recalled. "He didn't make captain, but a first officer is like a captain. They fly the aircraft too and being a captain was the next step."

Unfortunately, C.W. never got to be captain. He boarded a plane in Lexington early on Aug. 27, 2006 bound for Atlanta.

He was to catch up to his flight that he would be a crew member on for ATA later that day. But the flight he was taking was Comair Flight 5191.

The jet taxied and took off from the wrong runway in the pre-dawn hours and crashed. Forty-nine of the 50 people on board perished. Only the first officer, Jim Polheinke survived.

C.W. Fortney II

C.W. was just a few days short of turning 35.

The state and Powell County mourned for one of their own.

That was almost six years ago. Now the family of C.W. Fortney has set up a memorial scholarship fund. The scholarship will help a Powell County child who is interested in flying to attend the Kentucky Aviation Museum's Summer Camp.

"We just wanted to give a child from our home county a chance to follow their dream if they were interested in flying," Sarah Fortney Centimole, C.W.'s widow, told the Times last week. "C.W. loved it and he would have enjoyed helping others get their start."

Centimole is heading up the scholarship effort. It is made possible thanks to generous donations from Powell County following C.W.'s death. The family hopes the scholarship will provide opportunities to deserving young people to pursue learning.

It has not been easy. Since that fateful day Centimole has watched as the son she had with C.W. grows.

"It's been a journey the last few years," Centimole said. But I've watched him (Calvin James). He doesn't really have a memory of his dad; he was only 16 months old at the time. But he is piecing it together from the stories he has heard and the pictures he has seen."

But she admits that her son is showing some of the same interests. "He is a well adjusted child with diverse interests that run from Roy Rogers to Shrek," Centimole said. "But he also shows the same skill sets, like in math and an interest in planes."

Wayne Fortney remembers the interest C.W. had as well. "Since he was old enough to stand in the yard and look up in the sky C.W. was captivated by airplanes and flying," Wayne stated right after the tragedy. Now he remembers with pride the work his son had in his accomplishments.

Brown's art is a gift she likes to share

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

An artist with local ties and a definite Christian belief now has her own art exhibit. She give the Lord a lot of credit for it all.

Mary Margaret Brown of Standing in the Gap Ministries invites everyone to an art exhibit at Central Bank in Lexington, in the John Irwin Art Gallery on the second and third floors of the corporate offices. The theme of Ms. Brown's art is "Revealing God's Glory," landscape and floral oil paintings. The exhibit will run from May 11 until June 1 and can be seen during the week at banking hours.

Brown is a graduate of Mt. Sterling High School and the University of Kentucky where she received her Masters in Counseling. Brown has also written two books, "On the Glory Road with God and His Angels", published in 2001 and republished in 2008, where she reveals her insights into the angelic realm and her close walk with the Lord. The second book, "Arise Daughter of Abraham", was published in 2011, and it deals with the research into the position of women in the Body of Christ.

Both books can be purchased on Amazon.com or through Ms. Brown's ministry, called, Standing in the Gap.

Brown is the Founder and CEO of Standing in the Gap Ministries, PO Box 4575 Lexington, Ky. 40544. For years Brown has been on two radio stations weekly with her teachings on the Word of God and on public television for the last 10 years. She has also travelled extensively teaching on various subjects of the Bible from Alaska to Paris, France.

A lifelong dream was realized when she began taking art as a hobby at the Olli Program at UK. She will admit that the Lord has to be in her painting for it to look beautiful, and she gives Him all the credit for her inspiration. She has had several art exhibits in and around the Lexington area and has a website, www.standinginthegapministries.info where her art and books are displayed by Who's Who of America, which she was inducted into last year for ministers.

The art exhibit is free and open to the public. She invites everyone to come and share in this fabulous moment with her. If you have any questions, you can reach her at email: standgap-org1@insightbb.com or call (859) 275 1103 or call Ms. Patricia Wheatley at Central Bank, (859) 253-6346.

The painting "Forgiveness flowing down" (right) is one of several pieces of artwork that will be on display.

Council overrides zoning board

By KAYLA MAYS
Times Reporter

The Stanton City Council held their regular meeting last Thursday. It was a long and quite contentious meeting, mainly about a zoning change behind Kroger.

The council began with issues regarding the map amendment. At last month's meeting it was brought to the court that a zone change had been requested by Roland Dotson to change his property from a residential R1 to a business B2. The property that he was requesting a zoning change for is the property behind Kroger.

The planning and zoning board had denied the request and it was then brought to the City Council for their decision. Residents of the neighborhood around the property were concerned with the request for zoning change. They had concerns with what would be built there, and what kind of changes it would make to their neighborhood and how it would affect the residents.

However, Dotson stated he had no plans for the property as of now and wanted a zone change in case Kroger decided that they were ready to expand which they had discussed before. After a rather lengthy discussion about the affects it would have on the homes surrounding it by local residents, council member Tommy Mays stated, "I am for growing and getting jobs."

The council expressed the benefits it would have for the city and how it would be beneficial with the sewer project beginning. The council voted to overturn the zoning and planning decision allowing the property to be changed from residential to business. The council voted 4-1, Pam Tipton was opposed to the change.

Mayor Dale Allen then presented a letter to the council that had been sent in from the transportation cabinet in regards to the request for the installation of a traffic signal at the intersection of KY 11/ KY 15 and Airport Road in Stanton. The request was denied and the study was found that the intersection did not meet criteria. Allen said he would request another study.

The council then received a park update. The city will be hosting a summer event on June 9 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the park. They also approved the purchase of eight new trash cans and two benches for the park. The council also agreed with the parks committee to donate $500 to the Amvets for the Fourth of July Event.

City Attorney Scott Graham also advised the Council that due to the sewer project the sewer rates would increase effective next year. The rate now is $14.88 and could increase to $21. Graham advised that it could be lower and that rate was an estimate at that this time. He also advised that this was a mandate set by the Federal Government given the cost of the Regional Sewer Project.

Powell FBLA advisors honored

school for it so we checked out Emory Riddell in Florida, a really prestigious school, and we checked out Phoenix Air, but we decided that ECU was a good place too," Wayne said. "He told me how hard it was to make it and how he had to work hard to reach his goal. But he loved it."

Centimole, who has since remarried, had another son and works for Operation UNITE saying she is happy and has "been delivered from the tragedy," agrees.

"C.W. loved flying. Now we can try to create something I feel is positive from this, a tribute to C.W. so others can accomplish reaching their goals and passion," she said. "Children may not have such an interest in flying, but this may strike a nerve and help someone reach their goals."

The camp has three different levels. Those are for ages 10 and 11 with a camp set up for June 7-8 and June 14-

15. Camp for level two is for ages 12 or 13 and will be held June 11-12. The level three camp is for those ages 14-16 and will be held June 21-22. All three levels will have a camp on June 18-19.

The scholarship pays for the camp and gives a stipend to help pay for transportation. If needed, transportation will be arranged. Meals are also provided.

The scholarship is for those Powell County residents from age 10-16 who have a passion for flying. Interested youth should submit a personal essay describing their interest in aviation and their first choice of camp. The deadline is Friday, May 18. All submissions should be mailed to Aviation Camp Committee, P.O. Box 247, Stanton, Ky. 40380.

"We are hoping to be able to send someone and spark that interest in flying," Centimole added.

C.W.'s love started at a young age and his passion is now helping others. He probably would not have wanted it any other way.

Guest Column: Transparency and better access is a goal for county judge executive

By JAMES D. ANDERSON, JR.
Guest Columnist
Powell County Judge Executive

Before I took this office, I like many others was often left wondering what was going on in our county government. The only real way to get some true idea was to attend the fiscal court meetings, but for many of our citizens who have to work outside our community it can be challenging to make it to these. This leaves a large portion of our people with only limited accounts of what happened or without a chance to ask questions they may have.

One of the things I committed to when I took this office was to make our local government more transparent, accessible to the public and more accountable. In this effort, I will try to have an article each month after our regular court meetings to allow those who were unable to attend a chance to know what business was conducted, what items will be coming up in the future and a chance to ask questions they may have.

Also, in an effort, to be more accessible, we have moved our meeting time for regular meetings back to 7 p.m. In an effort to allow more people a chance to attend. One of the more exciting things to convey what's going on in our county will be our new web-site that should be coming in the next month or soon after. This space will allow us the opportunity to relay much more information than was feasible before. Some of the items on this site will be elected officials, boards, budgets, meeting minutes, and links to other related sites.

This past meeting had a fairly small agenda. There were only five items which the court took any action. The first item that required action was a resolution for a new senior center; this item was tabled until next meeting to allow for a more information to be gathered.

The second was a resolution with Brian Kirby for phase II of the Nada Housing project. This item died because of a tied vote. The next item was a Homeland Security Grant for mobile computer units for our police forces. The court voted to allow us to move forward with the purchase of this equipment from Independence Communications.

The next item the court approved was to allow Jailer Travis Crabtree to purchase three tasers. The only other item was to make the first reading of the proposed 2012-2013 budget.

Other items that didn't require court action was a proclamation for National Curves Day in observance of national women's health week. The last item was a county employee coming and asking why he had not received his grievance hearing yet, an explanation was given and the meeting adjourned.

I would like to thank Mr. Cook and the Clay City Times for allowing me the opportunity and space to open a new line of communication between government and public. I would also like to thank our citizens for allowing me to serve them and our county as we move forward.

If you have any questions or comments please feel free to contact me at the Powell County Judges Office, P.O. Box 506 Stanton, KY 40380, (606)663-2834.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thanking neighbors for being neighbors

On April 30 of last year, I was working at Abner's Motel when I leaned against a laundry cart, it rolled and so did I, causing my hip to break from the fall. The reason I'm writing this letter is to let everyone know how good my neighbors and family have been to me and still are helping.

I was going to list all the different things that they did in my garden, from plowing, planting, hoeing, sticking beans, tomatoes, even helping break the beans to canning them, but it would have taken many pages to list everything and just as soon as I start listing everything I'll leave one thing out. I also have a neighbor that kept our cemetery mowed. Another neighbor uses his weed eater on my yard, I want them to know that I remember each job they did for James and me and will never forget all their hard work.

I want to list my God sent helpers and may He bless each one of you: Donnie and Peggy Duff, Gary Abner, Larry Hatton, Brenda Ross, Gary and Connie Crabtree, Rose Smith, Wayne and Pam Angel, Joe Woosley, Brad Woosley, Mike and Susan Tipton, Rose Smith for food.

Thanks,

Guest Column: Giggle the pounds away with laughter

By REV. JAMES L.
SNYDER
Guest Columnist

Finally, someone has come up with a weight loss program I can sink my teeth into without guilt. And, I say it's about time.

I can't speak for anybody else, but I'm fed up with diet programs that simply beat me to death. I'm tired of starving myself under the pretense of dieting, and exercising my body to the brink of absolute exhaustion. It's about time someone looked on the lighter side of dieting.

According to a study in Athens, Greece, scientists have found a good laugh is a calorie burner not to be ignored. You can be sure this gained my attention. Some American researchers found that 10 to 15 minutes of genuine giggling can burn off the number of calories found in a medium square of chocolate.

These scientists discovered a way to measure how many calories people burn when they laugh. When I read this, I laughed for 39 minutes, allowing me to eat two medium squares of chocolate. At this rate, I'll be able to eat several pounds of chocolate a day. Now that's what I call a diet.

According to their findings, the average person burns 20 percent more calories when laughing, compared to not laughing. If somebody laughs for 10 or 15 minutes a day they would burn up to 50 calories, depending on body size and the intensity of the laughter.

This means if I laughed for 10 to 15 minutes a day, I would burn enough calories to lose 4-1/2 pounds in a year.

That's nothing to laugh at.

This means in 50 years I would completely disappear from the face of the earth. Which poses a question; when a person loses weight, where does that weight go?

I'm not one to jump on the latest bandwagon but there is nothing funny about carrying around extra weight. For some it's like having a monkey on their back, for me it's more like a gorilla.

Up to this point, my weight loss program has been a laughing matter. Little did I know my laughing was burning calories!

My exercise program has been a real joke, which may have done me good and I didn't know it. To be honest, my regimen has not produced the results I desired.

Just a few years ago, I exercised my right as an American citizen to vote for the president of my choice, which has been quite taxing on me, you can be sure. This kind of exercise takes more out of a person than realized at the time and must be good because I lost a great chunk of money in paying my taxes this year.

Every day I exercise my right to remain silent when the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage is giving me a piece of her mind. Although I have not lost any weight with this exercise, I haven't lost any arguments, either.

Personally, I think it's a good trade-off.

Now, with this new information I shall change my whole approach to dieting. Instead of working hard, exercising every day and watching what I eat, I shall throw caution to the wind and laugh all day long.

I shall laugh off all criticism with good humor. I shall roll in the aisles with uncontrollable mirth.

My only concern is that I don't die laughing. For the observant person, like Yours Truly, each day provides plenty of things to laugh about.

My only problem is to know exactly where to start. I could start laughing at my Beloved but I'm sure I would lose something other than weight, so I don't want to go there, if you know what I mean.

A good guffaw, I've discovered, carries more than just personal benefits. An old proverb says, "Laugh, and the whole world laughs with you." So, I can see where my laughing is going to help other people lose weight.

Why didn't somebody think of this before? I may have lost some time; but be assured I am determined to giggle my way to supreme health in the days and months ahead.

To begin my regimen of laughter, I only need to wake up in the morning. Believe me when I say, not waking up in the morning is no laughing matter.

When I wake up, I yawn, stretch and then go to the bathroom. One look in the mirror is good for a good belly laugh, which helps start the day in the right direction.

For the next laugh, I turn to the early morning news programs, which is good for a laugh-a-minute.

We truly live in a funny world, at least for the person who takes the time to see the funny side of the street.

All those people on early morning television seriously think what they say is important. When in reality, very little of what they say makes any difference in anyone's day.

If they only knew how insignificant their opinions are, they probably wouldn't get up in the morning and go to work. They give, on any given morning, sidesplitting, rib-tickling, laugh-a-minute exercises.

If you happen to see me walking down the street with a smile all over my face, don't be alarmed. I am engaged in my Laughtercise for the day. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine; but a broken spirit drieth the bones" (Proverbs 17:22).

Pirates gearing up for tournament play

By GREG MCINTOSH
Times Sportswriter

The Powell County baseball team has been mowing down most opponents all season. With two weeks to go in the regular season, the Pirates schedule got tougher going down the stretch.

Last Monday, Powell traveled to Lee County to face the Bobcats. The game was close for the first three innings with the score tied at 2 - 2. Powell broke the game open with six runs in the top of the fourth inning. Frank Spencer held the Bobcat hitters in check from the mound for five innings. Chance Snowden pitched the last two innings for the Pirates as Powell won 13 - 5 over Lee County.

Last Tuesday, the Pirates traveled to Paris to face the Bourbon County Colonels. Bourbon, one of the top teams in the 10th Region has always been a tough opponent for the Pirates. The Pirates took the lead early, 1 - 0 and added single runs going into the last inning.

Billy Hatmaker kept the Bourbon hitters off balance all game. Powell edged out a victory, 4 - 1 over the Colonels.

This past weekend, the Pirates were in action in the Fayette County Invitational in Lexington. Friday night, Powell went up against the Tates Creek Commodores on their home field. Trey Marcum was on the mound for the Pirates. Tates Creek lead 3 - 2 over Powell through five innings.

The Pirates could not manage to score against the Commodores. Tates Creek added three runs late in the game and defeated the Pirates by the score of 6 - 2.

On Saturday the Pirates faced Louisville Southern in their first game of the day. Powell cruised to victory in five innings, 11 - 1. In the second game of the day for Powell, the opponents were their counterparts from Conner. Powell sent Joey Johnson to the mound to keep the game close. The Pirates failed to take advantage of their opportunities in the game and Conner held on to defeat Powell 4 - 2.

The Pirates record now stands at 25 - 8 overall and a perfect 6 - 0 in district play. The Pirates were scheduled to travel to Lafayette on Tuesday. Powell travels to Montgomery County on Thursday.

The Pirates finish the regular season at home on Friday with Buckhorn. Friday's game will be Senior Night for the eight Powell County seniors.

Napier makes AAU team in Louisville

We would like to congratulate Austin Napier for making the 7th and 8th grade AAU basketball team "The Truth Elite" from Louisville, Kentucky. Austin is the newest team player and has already made it to their "Fab Five" and been nicknamed "The Shooter" on the team.

Since he has joined the team they have won the KBA and BCI tournament with a record of 28-2. Austin along with ourselves would like to thank his previous coaches for their time and attention to get him prepared for this level which would be Rob Merion, Christian Brewer, Travis Crabtree, Chris Baxter and Keith Hall.

Austin is the son of Steve and Jessica Boyd, Brady Napier and is the big brother of Dawson Boyd; grandson of Danny and Vicki Stewart, Johnny and Lydia Napier, Danny and Orene Boyd; great grandson of Joyce Rice.

We are very proud of Austin and want to wish him luck not only in his basketball journey, but also the journey God has laid out for him. "The Truth Elite" always comes out on the top.

As I left for work this morning my two thirteen year old sons were preparing for their first real paying job. Their papaw has “hired” them to paint all of his gates and the barn for an hourly wage. They have been extremely excited about this new endeavor and have already made plans for the money they will receive for their efforts.

I have stressed to them that once you are under someone’s employ it is all business and no play. When someone entrusts a job to you then nothing less than your best work will do. I explained to them that their papaw works very hard for his money which is what he will be paying them with; therefore, their workmanship should reflect that.

Watching them and listening to their excitement and elaborate plans brought back so many memories of my own first days of working. My parents had always given my brother and I an allowance for household chores.

But I can vividly remember one summer where I decided I was going to find any odd job I could to save up my “fortune”. With the greatest intentions I began petitioning anyone who would listen to me for work. To my dismay most of my pleas fell on deaf ears.

Thankfully my brother and I had a couple of yards we mowed for extra money and I decided I would hoard that back under lock and key. I even fashioned myself a “secret” hiding place out of one of my mom’s old check boxes. I took the top of that box and tacked it up under a wooden table in my room then put my money in the bottom half and voila` instant safe.

I learned fairly quickly the value of a hard day’s work and how much more those greenbacks meant when you had to sweat for them. This is the lesson I am eager for my boys to learn. They have always helped around the house and with the yard work, but this will be different. Anyone who has ever painted a barn knows that it is no small task. I fully expect them to be worn out and covered in paint though I hope they get more on the boards than on each other, but I know they will do their best. I just wonder how long it will take for the “fun” of a first job to wear thin.

I vividly remember when that new element of working disappeared from my first mowing job. The backyard of one of the houses we took care of seemed to be infested with moles and frogs. The frogs were far worse which I sadly discovered as I pushed that old mower back and forth. Every few feet a sickening thud could be heard over the whirring of the engine.

These suicidal amphibians would lay in wait and instead of running away from the blades of the mower they would jump straight into them... instant frog guts. My brother and I would take turns mowing the front and back yards and I quickly began to hate my turn at the back.

While mowing that yard I also learned that moles can make some fairly vicious sounds when cornered. I decided that those cute, furry, little blind rodents were best left alone.

One priceless lesson I learned from all those days of cutting grass and various other chores is that you begin to be more frugal with your earnings when you stop to reflect on how hard it was to make it. I also learned that although at times I thought I would drop, an honest day of work never hurt anyone. That summer I saved every dime I could and when our vacation rolled around I was one proud girl to be able have my own spending money. I felt like I was rich having saved over one hundred dollars which was a pretty good amount for an elementary school kid.

So as this summer begins I am anxious to see how my boys handle their first step into the real world of earning your keep. I know that this money will be treated much differently than the reward cash they get for good grades on their report cards. This money will have meaning and hopefully be packed with a more valuable education than all the books at Harvard.

Have a blessed week everyone! I hope you are able to get out and enjoy the beautiful weather our Lord has given us.

“But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts, and always be ready to give a defense to everyone who asks you a reason for the hope that is in you...” 1 Peter 3:15

Caregivers beware of burnout and stress

PAM DOOLEY
County Home Ec. Agent

If you are a caregiver of an elderly person or someone with a chronic illness, you probably know how stressful caregiving can be. It is not uncommon for people who are caregivers to experience extreme stress and “caregiver burnout.”

For many people caregiving is a very rewarding activity. However, because caregiving requires so much time on a daily basis, the person who is caregiving may not feel they have the opportunity to take care of their own needs.

When a caregiver is feeling stressed, there may be signals. If you are a caregiver or know someone who is, watch for these warning signs of burnout:

- Problems with sleeping or relaxing
- Sudden weight gain or loss

- Stressed relationships, especially with other family members
- Frequent sudden mood swings
- Sudden anger or bad temper
- Crying for no reason
- Unable to concentrate; felling of distraction
- Aches and pains
- Headaches
- Using alcohol or drugs

What can you do if you or someone you know has any of these signs?

Take basic steps for stress reduction:

- Stay positive
- Know that there are things you cannot change
- Exercise on a regular basis
- Get enough rest and sleep
- Do not relay on drugs or alcohol to help in stress management

Especially for caregivers:

- Do not think that you have to do it all by yourself.

There are a lot of support groups that can help a caregiver – church groups, community services and home health aides can give a caregiver a needed break.

• Stay connected to others. Family and friends can be a great help just by supporting you. Have a list of people you can call and talk to when feeling stressed.

• Eating regularly and exercising can be a big help. Also, participating in a hobby, listening to music or even writing in a journal can help lessen stress.

• Do not wait to ask for help. Being tired and needing sleep will make it easier to get angry or frustrated. If there is someone who can help out for a few hours it can make a world of difference and allow some time for the caregiver to take care of his or her own needs.

Caregiving can be a very rewarding job. It can also be very stressful. If you or someone you know is a caregiver, share resources and people who may help care for them. Also, it is important that caregivers take care of themselves.

Powell was one busy place last weekend

ENCOURAGING WORD: A COMPELLING OBLIGATION

Howard Coop
Guest Columnist

would take us northward from Jerusalem through the Judean mountains, across Samaria, and into Galilee.

Expectations were high, and all of us were excited. It was our first day in the Holy Land, the day of which we had dreamed. With spirits sensitive and minds awake, all of us had high expectations for the day ahead of us. Before sunrise, we gathered outside the Mt. Scopus Hotel in East Jerusalem eager to board the bus that

Before we were out of the city something, not on our schedule but depressing, caught our attention, and for a moment, it dampened our spirits. We began to see small children going toward a large building that we assumed was a school. When those children saw the Israeli bus, they became very expressive.

Looking toward the bus, the expressions on their faces showed extreme anger, and using a language we did not understand, they shouted, what we took to be, insults at us. Some picked up stones or other items that were available and angrily threw them at the bus. Those of us on the bus became quiet, and the Israeli guide and bus driver appeared not to notice what was happening.

Hours and many highly emotional experiences later, we were returning to Jerusalem. As we were near the place where we had seen the angry Arabic children earlier, our guide announced that, with twilight approaching, it was too dangerous to proceed through the area ahead. To avoid that danger, it was necessary to take a two-hour detour to the Mediterranean coast, down the coast to Tel Aviv, and up to Jerusalem.

When, tired and weary, we arrived at our hotel after an exceedingly long day, we gathered as soon as possible in the dining room for dinner. As we discussed the experiences of the day, we had to admit that witnessing the demonstration of tension between Arabs and Israelis was disturbing. But it reminded us that we have a compelling obligation to "Make every effort to live in peace with all men."

The Courthouse Crusaders Relay for Life Team held a Legends Concert last Saturday to help raise money for the fight against cancer. Local singers took on a different persona and became music legends for the night. It was the second year in a row that the Crusaders have held the Legends Concert. At left is "Sara Evans" (Morgan Hughes) and "Carrie Underwood" (Jessica Hall) singing a duet to the Reba McIntyre song "Does He Love You."
